How does this year deliver your curriculum intent?	Student inquisitiveness of the world around them is driven through the investigation of theoretical and research concepts whilst allowing students the opportunity to examine and analyse different perspectives, and sociological concepts. This year students will develop a holistic approach to explaining why societies function the way it does, using theory to consider different explanations for the organisational structures we see within society. The curriculum will allow students to confidently discuss societal issues and allow them to envision their ability to make a difference in society and the impact of research on policy development.
